Our Mission

The mission of the Philadelphia Charity Ball is two-fold: to raise funds for non-profit organizations focused on youth in Philadelphia, and to inspire the young people of Philadelphia to make philanthropy a central part of their lives.

The Philadelphia Charity Ball is a 133 year-old Philadelphia tradition. It is a formal celebration and gathering that has raised millions of dollars for a variety of worthwhile charities over the years. Each year the Ball endeavors to build-on and continue this tradition. For the first century, the beneficiaries of the Ball were Philadelphia hospitals and the results of these events are evident throughout our local hospital system. The 2012 Ball will benefit Gesu School in North Philadelphia, a school that has become a national model for inner-city schooling. Gesu was chosen for its fine work in serving young people in the challenging neighborhoods of North Philadelphia. Gesu is a remarkable school that has a profound influence on all those that it serves.

The Philadelphia Charity Ball is part of the fabric of the history of Philadelphia. Many of the past participants have gone on to assume positions in Philadelphia area charitable organizations. Its existence today connects us with our past in a socially relevant way that fosters a desire to help others in the many people that it engages.

Welcome to the Ball

Dear Guests,

I am honored to welcome you to the 133rd Philadelphia Charity Ball. I am inspired by the great appreciation for philanthropy and volunteerism that these young people demonstrate. The Ball highlights the contributions to the world these young people are making in the community and prepares them to continue to make philanthropy central to their lives. I am proud that many of our past participants have gone on to be integral in the charitable life of Philadelphia and see great promise in this year's participants.

This year's beneficiary will once again be Gesu School, an independent Catholic pre-k to eighth grade school in North Philadelphia that is a national example of excellence in inner-city education. Gesu, and the many dedicated people who work with the school, has made a difference in educating and nurturing children in some of Philadelphia's most challenging neighborhoods. We are honored to recognize and raise funds for this important local organization.

Significant work goes into making this Ball a success. I would like to thank the many people who made tonight possible: this year's participants and their families for their involvement and enthusiasm, the Board of Directors, Young Friends, Junior Committee, Volunteers, and Brianna Taylor who have worked tirelessly throughout the year to make this event a success. A special thank you to the sponsors and guests that are here tonight. With the collective support of these wonderful people, we are helping to inspire young people to become the future charitable leaders of Philadelphia.

Courtney has also traveled extensively with her church choir, the Scholar Cantorum of The Church of the Redeemer, performing vocal and service projects both home and abroad.

Courtney intends to major in economics when she attends college next fall and hopes to apply her knowledge and skills in the world of finance and business to help solve global economic problems.

Miss Laura Katerina McCauley

Laura graduated with honors from Conestoga High School and now attends Ithaca College of Music where she is majoring in Vocal Performance. Miss Lacey Deaver Swift-Farley daughter of Ms. Nina Elizabeth Swift and Mr. Alec T. Farley

A graduate of The Springside School, Lacey attends George Washington University in Washington D.C. Lacey was an avid sportswoman at Springside, playing varsity squash and serving as one of the tri-captains of the varsity field hockey team her senior year.

During high school Lacey enjoyed volunteering with children at Harbor Point Camp and Cradle to Crayons, an organization that provides children aged birth through twelve in homeless or low income situations with the essential items they need to thrive. Lacey also enjoyed working with special needs children, an experience that made her appreciate her good fortune. Lacey was touched by how warm and grateful the children were.

Lacey finds volunteering and philanthropy to be extremely rewarding, especially when children are involved. She intends to continue to volunteer at schools for special needs children in the future.

Gesu School

The 2012 Philadelphia Charity Ball Beneficiary

Dear Charity Ball Patrons,

We often say, "Gesu isn't Gesu without you!" This is an understatement. Your support tonight will help Gesu School continue to educate the 450 children from North Philadelphia who, without Gesu, would be without the opportunities and experiences they now enjoy.

As an independent, Catholic grade school, Gesu is charged with raising more than $3 million dollars in order to open the doors for the students each September. Located in North Philadelphia where crime, violence and poverty are prevalent, the mission of Gesu is to empower children, through a quality education, to dream of and realize a brighter future.

While the students thrive during their time at Gesu School, the real proof is in the students' successes beyond the 8th grade. With no admission selectivity, students have a wide range of ability. Nevertheless, over 90 percent of Gesu graduates complete high school within four years, in a city with high school graduation rates that hover around 50 percent.

Gesu is thrilled to be the beneficiary of the 2012 Philadelphia Charity Ball and thanks you for your patronage. Each of you is making a difference in the lives of deserving children right here in Philadelphia.

Sincerely,

Bryan Carter
President and CEO

Bryn Mawr Trust's Philadelphia Charity Ball Scholarship

"The joy and hope found at the Gesu School is almost palpable. From the bright colors on the walls to the smiles I found on every one of the children's and teacher's faces, the Gesu School is brimming with possibility and bright futures. Our visit was an absolute pleasure and I couldn't be more honored to support this school that everyday helps change the lives of hundreds of children."

Chandler also served as a counselor and sailing instructor at the YMCA Camp Tochwoh on the Chesapeake Bay. She found teaching children to sail to be an exhilarating experience and hopes to continue giving her summers to this cause.

Chandler believes that it is very important to teach others how to live productively and efficiently, evoking the proverb, "If you give a man a fish, you feed him for a day. If you teach a man to fish, you feed him for a lifetime." She hopes to live this lesson by becoming involved in Engineers without Borders in college and beyond.

In 2010 she ventured to Peru with classmates to provide support and aid to the less fortunate. Before leaving for South America Camille and her classmates organized a clothing drive and purchased new school supplies to donate to the local villagers. The smiles on the faces of those who benefited from this kindness was the biggest reward for Camille and the others involved in the project.

While undecided at the present time on a course of study, Camille has discovered that she loves helping people and that it makes her extremely happy. In the future, she hopes to continue to work with children, both locally and abroad, who cannot afford an education or simple necessities.

She also participated in a mission trip to Tennessee to rehab homes for the underprivileged and served as a student ambassador to England and France.

Leila plans to continue with community service opportunities while studying at High Point and is looking forward to future mission trips abroad. She hopes to combine her studies in criminal justice with future volunteer opportunities.

She was also active in a number of organizations including the Ecology Club, the World Affairs Club, and PALS – a program that fosters connections between the Lower, Middle and Upper Schools by training the older students to be mentors and group facilitators to the younger students and the community. Now in college, she enjoys being a member of the club rugby and squash teams and the National Organization of Active Minds, raising awareness about mental wellness.

Courtney has had numerous volunteer experiences including a school service trip to Peru during her sophomore year and several blood drives. Her last two summers were spent volunteering at Project H.O.M.E., a non-profit organization that provides housing and services to the chronically homeless population in the Philadelphia area. Courtney also volunteered as a teacher's aide at the Honickman Learning Center and Comcast Technology labs. In 2012 she gave her time to the Rowan Homes supervising residents' children and helping with enrichment activities in 2012.

Throughout her life Courtney has lived the experience of service to others and intends to continue this commitment in years to come. Courtney intends to stay involved with Project H.O.M.E., as well as work on a larger scale by traveling to South America or Africa to volunteer in a third world country. Throughout her thirteen years at Shipley, Sarah was applauded several times for her commitment to service, including being awarded the Shipley Service Prize, the State Representative Timothy Briggs Community Hero Award, and the Shipley Middle School Service Award.

Sarah focuses on a broad scope of philanthropy. She served as the Sponsor Chair of the 6th Annual Squash Pediatric Cancer event helping to raise $29,000 that was donated to the Children's Hospital of Philadelphia. Sarah is a candy striper at Bryn Mawr Hospital, a trained Wilderness First Responder and an enthusiastic volunteer with the youth group of the Church of the Redeemer. Sarah feels privileged to be surrounded by people that have taught her the importance of helping others and making a lasting impact in the community. Combining service with her faith only strengthens her belief that we serve a greater purpose than ourselves. In the future, Sarah hopes to bring awareness to many issues through hands-on volunteering.

Miss Marian Suzanne Prim

She also volunteered with Northern Homes, helping to provide a safe haven for children facing extraordinary challenges.

Providing support to those in need is very important to Marian. She would like to help with the education of communities, particularly those lacking food and clean water, because by educating these communities they will eventually be able to help themselves. Volunteering has been an incredible experience for Marian, reinforcing her idea that working with all kinds of people can lead to a beneficial experience for those in need.

Miss Emily Tyler Simkiss

daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Simkiss, III

Emily graduated with high honors from The Agnes Irwin School. Interested in photography, art history, travel and politics, Emily attends Tulane University in New Orleans, Louisiana, where she intends to major in Political Economy.

Tricia is a graduate of The Episcopal Academy, where she was a member of the Episcopal Women's Lightweight Crew Team, winning the Mind, Body and Spirit Award during her senior year. A gifted science student, Tricia won first place in the regional competition of the Pennsylvania Junior Academy of Science. Tricia is continuing her education at Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tennessee.

Animals are one of Tricia's passions and she developed a strong relationship with Francisvale, one of the oldest no-kill animal rescues in America while completing her senior project for Episcopal. Tricia has also worked with the local SPCA, as well as, an SPCA in San Miguel, Mexico, socializing animals so that they would become adoptable. This past summer Tricia also combined her passion for rowing with her love of service. Her passion for rowing took on new meaning with her involvement at the inner-city non-profit rowing program Philadelphia City Rowing (PCR). The organization aims to improve academic performance and the rate of college matriculation through the experience and discipline of rowing. Tricia dedicated her summer to this cause, where she coached beginning rowers.

Energized by the incredible service experiences, Tricia has a renewed appreciation of her own fortune in life. In the future she hopes to be able to help others understand their potential in this world and to help women who are struggling with injustices both internationally and domestically.

Miss Gioia Nicole Warden

daughter of Mrs. Dawn Elyse Warden and Mr. Richard Ayars Warden

A graduate of The Agnes Irwin School, Niki attends the University of Richmond. Niki enjoys painting, drawing, exercising, and traveling, and commits many hours to her community service endeavors.

Niki has dedicated herself to a number of volunteer programs including Habit for Humanity, the Bryn Mawr Presbyterian Church tutoring program and an Irwin sponsored service trip to Peru. The experience that proved to be the most rewarding for her was a service trip to Costa Rica with Wilderness Ventures because she had the chance to travel to a new land with a group of strangers who all shared the same goal – helping those in need. This trip afforded Niki, and the other participants, numerous opportunities to help. Niki was most profoundly impacted by the five days spent repairing a dilapidated school in a small mountain village. The experience enhanced her appreciation for life and the opportunities she has been blessed with.

The life changing experiences that Niki has had through community service have broadened her perspective on the world. She hopes to enroll in gender studies and women's rights courses at the University of Richmond to learn more about these issues and what she can do to make a difference.

Mr. William Desmond Blommer

son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter William Blommer

Will is a graduate of The Episcopal Academy, where he was a three year member of the Varsity Crew team and a member of the Young Republican's Club. Graduating cum laude from Episcopal, Will now attends Georgetown University in Washington D.C., where he intends to pursue a degree in International Business.

Will has traveled the world serving people. He has built solar cocoa bean dryers in Ecuador, painted a pre-school in Costa Rica, and participated in the building of a playground in Guatemala. This playground building experience proved to be the most rewarding of Will's endeavors, helping to transform a dilapidated basketball court into a full playground for the children of one Guatemalan town.

Education, both domestic and abroad, is an area that Will feels strongly about. The Gesu School is an excellent example of a partnership that can be affected by young people, like Will, who are committed to making changes towards a better life for others.

Mr. Benjamin Ellis Claytor

son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Brannan Claytor

Ben is a student at the North Yarmouth Academy in Yarmouth, Maine. A compassionate volunteer, Ben divides his time during the school year at a preschool for children ages 3 to 5 and at his church and other organizations through his youth group. He is also a Young Voter Election Director in the Chris Tyllis campaign for State Senate. Ben is an accomplished lacrosse player and credits his most rewarding volunteering experience to his love for the sport.

Inspired by his travels to the remote areas of Nepal during 2010, Ben founded the International Sports Education Foundation. ISE's mission is to connect global youth through sports education and sportsmanship." His efforts have received donations in excess of $4,000 and with this aid, Ben has been able to establish a connection to the Pelkhill School in Bhutan. Ben traveled to Bhutan where he put his idea of helping to connect global youth communities through sports into practice, building lifelong friendships through playing and learning with the common experience of lacrosse.

Enriching the lives of both boys and girls by teaching them the sport of lacrosse, Ben is certain that the results of these shared experiences will help those involved act globally as responsible adults.

Mr. Henry Philip Cooté

son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeremy P. Cooté

Henry is a graduate of The Episcopal Academy, where he enjoyed lacrosse, the outdoors, sports and friends. Now a freshman at Trinity College in Connecticut, Henry continues his love of sports by playing goalie on the Trinity men's lacrosse team.

While at Episcopal, Henry played on the Headstrong lacrosse team and served as an intern for the Headstrong Foundation helping to raise money to find a cure for blood-cancer through the Leukemia/Lymphoma Society. Henry participated in organizing new fundraising opportunities and in the everyday operations of the non-profit group.

Whether here in Philadelphia, at college in Connecticut, or on his summer breaks in Maine or the south of France, Henry plans to use his love of sports to support the various causes that affect the world around us.

Mr. Samuel Branton Henderson

son of Mr. and Mrs. Branton Holstein Henderson, III

Sam graduated cum laude from The Haverford School where he attained highest honors during all four years of his high school career. Sam was also a member of the Haverford Service Board and served as Chairman of the Character Mentorship Program, a Haverford program designed to mentor fellow students who had broken the school's honor code. An avid sportsman, Sam played golf, baseball and squash and served as co-captain of Haverford's varsity squash team during his senior year. Sam now attends the Carroll School of Management at Boston College, where he intends to major in management and finance, while also carving out time to play squash on the Varsity squash team.

Sam has participated in many service opportunities, such as Empty Bowls, where he was in charge of the advertising committee. He also participated in Can Drives, the Special Olympics, and Relay for life, where he served as the captain of the team.

At Boston College, Sam plans to continue to volunteer his time by starting a micro-finance club. The club will focus on raising money for people in less privileged countries, using the funds to allow those citizens the opportunity to start businesses or expand their current endeavors.

Mr. George Blackmore Lemmon, III

son of Mr. and Mrs. George Blackmore Lemmon, Jr.

A graduate of the Haverford School, B.G. is a nationally ranked squash player and, along with his father, a two time defending National Champion in Father/Son Squash Doubles. He was awarded the Fredrick C. Peters Prize for the Haverford Class of 2012, an award given to the student whose leadership has made the school happier for his presence and whose loyal service to Haverford has inspired in his fellow students a more generous vision of good citizenship.

B.G. served on the Service Board for three years, and volunteered for such projects as Relay for Life, Empty Bowls, 90% Noise, the Special Olympics at Villanova University and numerous walks for charity. The most rewarding of B.G.'s volunteer endeavors was the Bingo Night at Haverford that brought together the entire school community, and taught him the complications of planning, organizing and running an event of such magnitude.

B.G. feels that charity is never an obligation, but only a choice that people have to make. In the future, he hopes to work with children who are less fortunate, whether that be here in America or globally.

Mr. Clayton Gates Chapman McNeil

son of Mr and Mrs. Collin Farquhar McNeil

A graduate of The Episcopal Academy, Gates attends Sewanee: The University of the South, prospectively majoring in History with a minor in Economics. A self-proclaimed "basketball addict", Gates is truly an all-Philadelphia fan, favoring the Sixers but also enjoying the Eagles.

Gates is an active member of St. Paul's Church in Exton, where he has served as an acolyte for several years, as well as in various other capacities during services. The Chester County Food Bank has also benefited from Gates' involvement which culminated in May with his senior project for Episcopal on Hunger in Chester County. During the summer of 2011, Gates had the experience of a lifetime when he participated in the Overland service experience through New Orleans and Santa Fe, working together with fellow students to discover their own strengths through accomplishment and service to others.

Gates' service journeys have led him to decide that helping the homeless and hungry is important to him and that these causes will continue to be an important part of his life in the future. In addition, he is concerned with the preservation of open space and sees himself aiding efforts to ensure green spaces in the future.

Mr. Douglas Kingsley Pratt

son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hersey Pratt

Doug is a graduate of the Episcopal Academy where he enjoyed running with the cross-country team. He also enjoys staying active through snowboarding, mountain biking and playing tennis. In the spring of his senior year, Doug had the opportunity to travel to Serbia for his senior project where he worked for the American Embassy and became fascinated with International Law. Doug now attends SUNY Albany where he is pursuing a degree in Criminal Justice.

While at Episcopal Academy, Doug participated in many hours of service work. Among some of his favorite service hours are those he spent working with the Episcopal community in Philadelphia, helping young children learn to read. Doug did his mission work with Gladwyne Presbyterian Church, where he participated in two mission trips to Costa Rica to repair local church buildings. His mission work also took him to Kentucky to work with the Appalachian Service Project, fixing homes in the rural communities. During this trip, Doug found the most rewarding part to be the feeling that he had really helped people when they desperately needed it.

Doug feels that charity work is rewarding for all involved, be they the ones receiving the aid or the ones providing it. Everyone should partake, Doug believes, because it will definitely pay off for everyone in the long run.

Mr. David J. Richards, II

son of David J. Richards, M.D. and the late Margaret Mary Richards

David attends Northwestern University, where he is majoring in History, Pre-Law and Politics. A graduate of William Penn Charter School, David plans to pursue the law as his life's calling.

At Northwestern, David is a member of the fraternity Delta Tau Delta and serves as the senior senator for Northwestern University for all fraternities. David also serves as the President of the Young Republicans Club of Northwestern, and has worked diligently at home in the Philadelphia region as a volunteer for the Republican Party.

Mr. Fitz Daniel Tabas Tepper

son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Lewis Tepper

A graduate of The Haverford School, Fitz is co-founder and president of the 90% Noise Foundation, the Network of International Students for Education, an organization formed to promote a network of global education, perspectives and support. Additionally, Fitz served as president of the Haverford Student Service Board, vice-president of the school's DECA club, and helped create the Main Line Student Tutors. Fitz has taken his talents to The University of Southern California, where he intends to major in Business and Computer Science.

As a member of 90% Noise, Fitz has spent many hours actively working and volunteering both in his home community and on site in Peru at a school which has benefited greatly from the endeavors of the organization. In the last two years alone, tens of thousands of dollars have been raised to further the education of children in Peru, Colombia, and other developing nations. Visiting children at a school in Peru brought the reality of the club's work home for Fitz, and the experience renewed his drive and commitment to the project.

In Los Angeles, Fitz is presented with many opportunities to help impoverished children in the local communities and he intends to become involved in charity work that will benefit those in need. Realizing how fortunate he has been to receive an incredible education, Fitz would like to do whatever he can to ensure that other children receive the same opportunity.

Mr. William Scott Warren

son of Ms. Bonnie Jeanne Stokes and Mr. William Scott Warren

Scott, a graduate of The Haverford School, now attends college at University of Virginia. An avid lacrosse player in high school, Scott now plays for the UVA club lacrosse team, participates in marketing club, and takes courses with the intention of applying to the McIntire School of Commerce. He hopes to pursue his interests in Chinese language, international business and international relations while in college.

Through volunteerism, Scott has dedicated himself to educational issues in the Philadelphia region. Scott served as a tutor for the Bryn Mawr Tutoring Program, a program that pairs grade school aged inner-city children with a tutor from a high school on the Main Line for weekly learning sessions. Working with the same child throughout his time serving the program, Scott noticed improvement in the young man's abilities and developed a rewarding friendship with his mentee. He also gave his time to the Children's Scholarship Fund of Philadelphia, helping them to process their yearly scholarship applications and preparing for their annual event. These volunteer experiences helped Scott to fully appreciate the learning opportunities he benefited from growing up and how important educational improvement is on a national level.

In the future, Scott plans to continue to work for the progression of educational opportunities for under-privileged families in the Philadelphia region. Scott notes his father's philanthropic efforts in this area and his volunteer experiences as an inspiration for his dedication to improving inner-city education.

Mr. David H. Wietlisbach

son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce D. Wietlisbach

David is a graduate of Malvern Preparatory School where he received distinguished honors during his senior year and played on the Varsity football team. Pursuing a degree in business, David now attends Xavier University in Cincinnati, Ohio.

While at Malvern Prep, David was a prolific volunteer, participating as a church school instructor and a volunteer at the Don Guinella Home, a residential facility for boys and young men with mental retardation. David also dedicated himself to the Juvenile Diabetes Walk, the Malvern C.A.R.E.S. Walk for Cancer, and Habitat for Humanity. David is also making an impact in Cincinnati, where he has begun working with the St. Joseph's Home, helping to improve the indoor and outdoor living areas to provide a livelier environment for the patients.

David cherishes the opportunity to be able to touch the hearts of the disabled with small acts of kindness. He has learned that even the smallest deeds of charity can help bring smiles and happiness to others, and he intends to continue to work towards the goal of improving the well-being and treatment of humans and animals around the world.
