WELCOME

Welcome to the 140th Philadelphia Charity Ball. The mission of the Ball is the same today as it was 140 years ago — to raise funds for worthy charities and to inspire young people to make philanthropy a central part of their lives. The Ball highlights the contributions to our communities that the young ladies and gentlemen have already made and hopefully will continue long after tonight's celebration. We can all be inspired by them and by those past participants who have gone on to be an integral part of philanthropy in Philadelphia.

Once again, this year's beneficiary is Special Olympics Pennsylvania. Founded in 1970, and now the world's largest amateur sports organization, Special Olympics provides year-round sports training and athletic competition offering 21 Olympic-type sports for children and adults with intellectual disabilities, giving them continuing opportunities to develop physical fitness, demonstrate courage, experience joy, and participate in a sharing of gifts, skills and friendship with their families, other Special Olympic athletes, and the community. With nearly 1,500 athletes in the Philadelphia area, Special Olympics offers a variety of sports through community-based programming. Recently, Special Olympics Pennsylvania introduced a new campaign, "The Inclusion Revolution," to educate all of us about the importance of inclusion.

This Ball would not be a success without the hard work and dedication of many people. I want to thank particularly this year's debutantes and young gentlemen and their families for their involvement and enthusiasm, the Board of Directors who work throughout the year to make this event a success, the Young Friends Committee, and our Executive Director, Lydia Butcher, without whose hard work, insight and humor the Ball could not take place. A special thank you must also go to the sponsors and guests here tonight. It takes all of you not just to make the Ball a success but to guide and inspire the young people here to become future philanthropic leaders, while continuing this important Philadelphia tradition. Please enjoy the evening.

Jay Devine

President, The Philadelphia Charity Ball

OUR MISSION

The mission of the Philadelphia Charity Ball is two-fold: to raise funds for non-profit organizations focused on youth in Philadelphia, and to inspire the young people of Philadelphia to make philanthropy a central part of their lives.

The Philadelphia Charity Ball is a 140-year-old Philadelphia tradition. It is a formal celebration and gathering that has raised millions of dollars for a variety of worthwhile charities over the years. Each year the Ball endeavors to build on and continue this tradition. For the first century, the beneficiaries of the Ball were the Philadelphia hospitals and the results of these events are evident throughout our local hospital system.

The Philadelphia Charity Ball is part of the fabric of the history of Philadelphia. Many past participants have gone on to assume positions in Philadelphia area charitable organizations.
